EARLY MORNING BLAZE.

Fire Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock badly damaged the home of Mr. W. M. Allen on the Hill City pike, just outside the city limits. The fire was in the upper story of the house and as there had never been any fire there, the supposition is that it was caused by a defective flue. Most of the furniture was damaged. The loss is several hundred dollars, fully covered by insurance in the Mason County Mutual. The Maysville Fire Department went out and saved the house from total destruction by the use of chemical apparatus.

Captain E. R. Montfort, national commander of the G. A. R., has appointed Captain B. T. Riggs of Cynthiana, one of his four aids-de-camp for the Kentucky encampment to be held at Lexington next month.

MR. THOMAS LUTTRELL

Death of This Well Known and Popular Citizen At His Home At Helena Wednesday Morning.

Mr. Thomas Luttrell, aged 63, died at his home at Helena Wednesday morning at 5 o'clock. He had been declining in health for some time, but not until recently did his condition become serious, and for the last week his death has been momentarily expected.

Mr. Luttrell was recognized as one of the leading farmers and stock raisers of this county, the fact of his having been successful in his pursuits showing him to have been a man who knew how to conduct the business he had engaged in. He was a splendid gentleman, a fine neighbor and his passing is a distinct loss to the county.

Mr. Luttrell is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Frank Peed of this county, and one sister, Mrs. Charles Miner of California.

The funeral will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock at his late home, and the interment will follow in the Maysville cemetery.

Please omit flowers.

MORE TROOPS

Called For By General Funston and Another Regiment Ordered To Him—Wire Connections Cut By Bandits.

Washington, March 22.—The Twenty-fourth Infantry, stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., was ordered to the border last night.

Columbus, N. M., March 22.—Wire communication between the United States and General Pershing's punitive expedition in northern Chihuahua was at a standstill last night, it was officially announced from military headquarters here. It was asserted that the army wireless station at Casas Grandes failed shortly before 6 o'clock, the only remaining line of communication into Mexico being by a field telegraph wire which has been practically useless for several days because it has been cut in a number of places between Columbus and its terminus, thirty miles south of the border. If the break in the wireless is not repaired shortly, it was said, it will be necessary to depend upon the couriers to carry dispatches.

Major W. R. Sample, commandant here, announced that it was discovered yesterday that the field telegraph line had been cut in twenty-eight places, eight miles of the wire being carried away in one place. He pointed out, however, that it was possible since a large part of the wire was strung along the ground at the side of the roadway that some of the breaks had been caused by the passing of trucks over them. He asserted that previously the wireless station here had experienced some difficulty in operating at night because it uses the same wave lengths as the large stations at Arlington, Va., San Francisco and Panama.

That horses and mules with the American expeditionary force in Mexico are suffering from heat was indicated in reports received at the military base here from veterinarians with the expedition. These asserted that twelve mules were missing and requested that a consignment of horse clippers be sent by motor train at once to be used in relieving the animals.

Two Airmen Lost.

Two lieutenants of the First Aero Squadron are lost somewhere in the desert foothills of the Sierra Madre with but three days' rations and two small canteens between them and starvation, it was officially made known at military headquarters here. Army officers do not credit reports in Columbus that the two lieutenants may have fallen victims of snipers.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Was Local Man's Brother At Hamilton Last Friday Morning.

Concerning the accidental death of Adam Eppensteiner, at Hamilton, O., last Friday, mention of which was made in The Ledger without particulars, the Hamilton Evening Journal has this article:

"At 6:30 o'clock Friday morning the southbound C. H. & D. work train hit a man going north on the new river bridge with his lunch basket and hurled him to the banks of the river some distance below.

"The man's identity was for some time in doubt and was only established by William Schramm, who recognized the body as that of Adam Eppensteiner, formerly of Cokeotto and vicinity.

"Eppensteiner had worked in the coke works until a month ago, when he secured work as a laborer in the machine shop of the Hooven, Owens & Rentschler Company, on the night shift.

"This morning he left as usual with his lunch basket and was hit and killed by the work train while going home.

"Eppensteiner is survived by the widow and two sons and two daughters, one of his sons being the well known pugilist.

"Eppensteiner's leg were both broken and he sustained four fractures of his skull which caused his death a short time after the accident."

LYCEUM.

Those who heard the address at the High School auditorium Tuesday night by James A. Burns, "the man of the mountains," pronounce it one of the most interesting and instructive ever delivered in this city.

SQUIRES, BRADY & CO.

Maysville's Newest Clothing Firm Makes Its Formal Advertising Appearance Today.

Elsewhere in this issue of The Public Ledger the attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of Maysville's newest clothing firm, Squires, Brady & Company.

The members of this firm need no introduction to the people of this community at our hands, as they are well known young men, both Mr. Leon Squires and Mr. Nace Brady having started their career as clothing salesmen in this city. Both of these young gentlemen have a host of friends who are anxious to see them make a success in their undertaking, and as they have announced in their advertisements—NOW FOR A MONEY SAVING STARTER.

This new firm having purchased the entire stock of J. Wesley Lee, they are in a splendid position to offer some real and genuine bargains and if you are in the market for anything in their line, no doubt it will pay you to give them a call. Anyway, go around and see the "boys." Give them the "glad hand." They are deserving of it.

The Public Ledger wishes the new firm a successful career, and to the retiring owner, Mr. J. Wesley Lee, we say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

ROSS-BRADY.

Mr. Nace M. Brady and Miss Blanche Ross of Sharon, near South Ripley, were married Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. H. B. Wilhoite of the Baptist church. Mr. Brady is a successful young business man of this city, having lately become a partner in the clothing firm of Squires, Brady & Company. The Ledger extends congratulations to the happy young couple.

EMMER TO BE RELEASED.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says: "Dowd, Caporal, Emmer, Anderson and one other outfielder will be let out when the team gets home next week, which will reduce the squad to twenty men, which is one under the limit allowed by the league."

THE HOME OF QUALITY CLOTHES

This Store is Crowded With THINGS FOR SPRING

Everything that is right and many things that are bright are now ready for the eye-glance of the discriminating man or young man. While we feel that we have clothes in abundance, we are frank in saying that the quantity of each style is limited to a moderate number, thus assuring exclusiveness to those who purchase. You may pay from $15 upwards, but pay what you choose, you will receive excellent value, and by excellent value we mean correct style, perfect fabric and individuality in every detail.

An advance shipment of style ideas has just been received from our Tailors at Fashion Park. To try to describe these styles would be a mistake. You must see them.

Mothers, we want you to come in and see the smart spring styles in high-grade, serviceable suits for boys. Two pair of pants to each suit.

D. HECHINGER & CO.

No War Prices on Silks at Hunt's

Have you examined the quality of our Crepe de Chines at $1.19? Of our Radium Silks at $1.25? Every condition of the silk market would justify higher prices. These silks were dyed while the best imported colors were still obtainable, consequently they have the luster and exquisite shades such dyes only can produce.

There is a wide range of colors, including white, ivory and black. These silks are 40 inches wide, full weight, very supple, and extremely rich in appearance. Positively no silks of like quality will be obtainable at the price after these are sold. It is an economic opportunity no woman can afford to neglect.

The New Rugs For $15.00

From a manufacturer whose rugs rank with the best made in America; woven of pure wools and worsted with close, heavy pile. The patterns are splendid Oriental styles; bold medallion figures and neat allover effects, perfect in every way. Seamless of course. Room size. Large assortment.

For the Woman Whose Suit Price Is $25.00

We have a stock it will pay her to see. We invite very careful comparison of these suits with others at the same price. If you will compare the fabrics, the workmanship, the finish and the style, remembering that our suits are absolutely all-wool, the decision will be in our favor. We know it. And in knowing it we have no hesitancy in saying so squarely.

Our price this week for butterfat, 37 cents, Maysville.

HOW WILL YOU SPEND YOUR VACATION?

"How will I spend my vacation this summer?" Oh, yes, we know you would like to trot off to the seashore and splash around in the water and show strangers what a fine figure you have, and annex a coat of fashionable tan and eat the vile stuff the summer hash houses hand out to you, and all that sort of bunk. But here's a little old-fashioned horse sense and it won't cost you even a thank you. Within ten or fifteen miles of Maysville are many of the finest farms in the country. In the summer time you will find growing on those farms about everything you care to eat. You will find cattle, hogs, sheep and other animals galore. They are good to look at and it won't cost you anything to look. Then you will find good, honest, intelligent, wholesome people on those farms, too—people who mean what they say and don't flatter you to your face and call you a freak when your back is turned. They are good people to know and better people to have as friends. Go out and spend your vacation on one of those farms. Feed the chickens and calves and learn to milk the cow and stick on the back of a horse. Wear a 15-cent straw hat and ride around on the loads of hay as the farmer is drawing it to the barn. Get back to nature once in your life if you never get there again. Get a few friends together, pick out the place you want to go to and write to the farmer. If he can accommodate you it may cost you but a few dollars and be of inestimable value to your future health.

There would be less objection to the feminist movement if man kind could be guaranteed against a lowering of the quality of pumpkin pie and wheat muffins.

Four Inch Tires

Five-passenger Touring

THE body design of this new Overland carries out the latest streamline design. The equipment compares with that of cars very much higher in price. At the same time it is a low priced car that costs very little to run. It is equipped with the Autolite two-unit starting and lighting system. Its rear springs are the famous cantilever type, probably the easiest riding springs ever designed. It has four-inch tires all around; non-skids on rear. Demountable rims are used and one extra rim is included. There is a magnetic speedometer and a full set of tools. It is not only a thoroughly high grade car, but carries with it a completeness of equipment unheard of in cars of this price.

Stingaree

BY E. W. HORNUNG.

Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons

At last he opened one eye a little. It was met by no answering furtive glance. He opened the other, and there could be no more doubt. The terrible superintendent was dozing in his place, but it was the lightest sort of doze. The eyes were scarcely closed and all but watching Stingaree as the cocked revolver in the relaxed hand all but covered him. The prisoner felt that for the moment he was unseen, forgotten, but that the lightest movement of his body would open those terrible eyes once and for all. He remembered that he was lying under them lengthwise on the bound arm, with the arm in the sling uppermost and easily to be freed, but yet the most salient part of the recumbent figure and that on which the hidden eyes still seemed fixed for all their lids. To make the least movement there, to attempt the slowest withdrawal of hand and arm, was to court the last disaster of discovery in such an act. But to lie motionless down to the thighs and to execute a flank movement with the leg uppermost was a far less perilous exploit. It was the leg with the bare foot. Every detail had been foreseen. And now at last the bare foot hovered over the revolver and the hand it held, while the upper man yet lay like a log under those drowsy, dreadful eyes.

Stingaree took a last look at the barrel drooping from the slackened hand. The back of the hand lay on the ground, the muzzle of the barrel was filled with sand, and yet the angle was such that it was by no means sure whether a bullet would bury itself in the sand or in Stingaree. He took the risk, and with his bare toe he touched the trigger sharply. There was a horrible explosion. It brought the drowsy superintendent to his senses with such a jerk that it was as though the smoking pistol had leaped out of his hand a thing alive and so into the hand that flashed to meet it from the sling. And almost in the same second, while the double cloud of smoke and sand still hung between them, Stingaree sprang from the ground, an armed man once more.

"Sit where you are!" he thundered. "Up with those hands before I shoot them to shreds! Your life's in less danger than mine has been all day, but I'll wing you limb by limb if you offer to budge!"

With uplifted hands above his ears, the deformed officer sat with head and shoulders depressed into the semblance of one sphere. Not a syllable did he utter. Stingaree stood wriggling and fumbling at the coil which bound his left arm to his side. Suddenly the revolver went off as if by accident, but so much by design that there dangled two ends of rope, cut and burned away by lead and powder. In less than a minute the bushranger was unbound, and before the minute was up he had leaped upon the superintendent's thoroughbred. It had been tethered all this time to a tree, swishing tails with the station hack which Stingaree had ridden as a captive. He now rode the thoroughbred and led the hack to the very feet of the humiliated Cairns.

"I will thank you for that water-bag," said Stingaree. "I am much obliged. And now I'll trouble you for that nice wideawake. You really don't need it in the shade. Thank you so much!"

He received both bag and hat on the barrel of the government revolver, hooking the one to its proper saddle strap and clapping on the other at an angle imitatively of the outwitted officer.

"I won't carry the rehearsal any further to your face," continued Stingaree, "but I can at least promise you a more flattering portrait than the last, and this excellent coat, which you have so considerably left strapped to your saddle, should contribute greatly to the verisimilitude. Dare I hope that you begin to appreciate some of the points of my performance, so far as it has gone? The pretext on which I barred my foot for its delicate job under your very eyes, eh? Not so vain as it looked in either sense, I fancy. Should you have said that your hand would recoil from a revolver the moment it went off? You see, I staked my life on it, and I've won. And what about that fall? It was the lottery! I was prepared to have my head cracked like an egg, and it's still pretty sore. The broken wrist wasn't your fault; it had passed into the accepted situation before you turned up. And you would certainly have seen that I was shamming sleep if we hadn't both been so genuinely sleepy at the time. I give you my word, I very nearly threw up the whole thing for forty winks! Any other point on which you could wish enlightenment? Then let me thank you with all my heart for one of the worst days and some of the greatest moments in my whole career."

But the creaked man answered never a word as he sat in a ball with upturned palms and glaring, upturned, unquarable eyes.

"Goodby, Superintendent Cairns," said Stingaree. "I'm afraid I've been rather cruel to you, but you were never very nice to me!"

Sergeant Cameron was driving the spring cart, toward sundown, after a variety of unforeseen delays. Of a sudden out of the pink haze came a galloping figure, slightly humped, in the inspector's coat and wideawake, with a bare foot through one stirrup and only a sock on its fellow.

"Where's the Stinger?" screamed the sergeant, pulling up. And the galloper drew rein at the driven horse's head.

"Dead!" said he thickly. "He was worse than we thought. You fetch him while I'm—"

But this time the sergeant knew that voice too well, and his right hand had down to the back of his belt. Stingaree's shot was only first by a fraction of a second, but it put a bullet through the brain of the horse between the shafts, so that horse and shafts came down together, and the sergeant fired into the earth as he fell across the splashboard.

Stingaree pressed soft heels into the thoroughbred's ribs and thundered on and on. Soon there was a gate open, and when he listened at that gate all was still behind him and before, but far ahead, the rolling plain was faintly luminous in the dusk, and as this deepened into night a cluster of terrestrial lights sprang out with the stars. Stingaree knew the handful of gaunt, unsheltered huts the lights stood for. They were an inn, a store and police barracks—Clear Corner on the map. The bushranger galloped straight up to the barracks, but skirted the knot of men in the light before the veranda and went jingling round into the yard. The young constable in charge ran through the building and met him dismounted at the back.

"What's the matter, sir?"

"He's gone!"

"Stingaree?"

"He was worse than we thought. Your man all right?"

"No trouble whatever, sir. Only sick and sorry and saying his prayers in a way you'd never credit. Come and hear him."

"I must come and see him at once. Got a fresh horse in?"

"I have so! In and saddled in the stall. I thought you might want one, sir, and ran up Barmald, Stingaree's own mare, that was sent out here from the station when we had the news."

"That was very thoughtful of you. You'll get on, young man. Now lead the way with that lamp."

This time Stingaree had spoken in gasps, like a man who had ridden very far, and the young constable, unlike his sergeant, did not know his voice of old. Yet it struck him at the last moment as more unlike the voice of Superintendent Cairns than the hardest riding should have made it, and with the key in the door of the cell the young fellow wheeled round and held the lamp on high. That instant he was felled to the floor, the lamp went down and out with a separate yet simultaneous crash, and Stingaree turned the key.

"Howie! Not a word—out you come!" The burly ruffian crept forth with outstretched hands apart.

"What! Not even handcuffed?"

"No. Turned over a new leaf the moment we left you and been praying like a parson for 'em all to hear."

"This chap can do the same when he comes to himself. Lies pretty still, doesn't he? In with him!" And Howie dragged the unconscious constable into the cell.

The door clanged. The key was turned. Stingaree popped it in his pocket.

"The later they let him out the better. Here's the best mount you ever had. And my sweetheart's waiting for me in the stable."

Outside, in front, before the barracks veranda, an inquisitive little group heard first the clang of the door within and presently the clatter of hoofs coming round from the yard. A fresh outcry from the cell and a mighty hammering against its locked door broke the truth to one and all.

And Howie Dragged the Unconscious Constable into the Cell.

The more extensive use of steel barges for hauling coal on the Ohio river is expected within the next few seasons.

The late Captain George W. Cox of Gallipolis, over fifty years ago owned and commanded the famous packet Kanwha Belle, one of the most successful boats that ever operated in the Gallipolis and Charleston trade.

Engineer Charles Hall of Crown City, received a chief engineer's license from Inspectors Clark and Thomas. It is understood he will go on the towboat Dunbar as assistant to Chief Engineer George Rodgers of Gallipolis.

The beacon light tender Golden Rod is coming up the river on her first trip up the Ohio for several years. Captain Southgate is in command of the Golden Rod. The boat delivers oil and all supplies to the tenders for government lights.

The combine towboat Enterprise, towing coal from the Kanawha river to Cincinnati, ran through herself near Chillicothe coming up with empties, and turned back loose for Cincinnati for repairs. Captain Lew Speer is in command of the Enterprise. He was on the old Coal City for several years.

A number of victims of the Sam Brown and Kanawha had large amounts of insurance. The insurance companies have been holding up settlements pending the finding of the bodies, it is said, and for that reason a renewed effort to take the bodies from the river is expected as soon as the water falls.

As soon as the weather settles there will be a heavy business on the river according to local rivermen. It was declared that the unusually unsettled weather of the winter has kept down a business that would have ordinarily been a record breaker. Rivermen here expect the biggest business in years during the spring and summer.

Captain Sam A. Hamilton, veteran riverman, a steamboat master and pilot of the old school, celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday quietly at the home of his son, Captain George, Sunday. Captain Hamilton is a survivor of the steamer Lena May disaster in which several lives were lost when that boat exploded her boilers near Clipper Mill many years ago.

Federal inspectors have been ordered to board steamers night or day to determine whether or not the steam pressure limit of 190 pounds is being violated by engineers. A number of registered engineers declared that they were not in favor of excessive steam pressure. An engineer can not be compelled by a higher officer to run with an over-pressure of steam.

Doubt that any of the five bodies missing as the result of the explosion which killed nine on the towboat Sam Brown will ever be recovered, was expressed by Captain Kimble of the Huntington wharfbat. The only hope of getting them is that warm water of the summer will bring the bodies to the surface of the water. As long as the water remains cold they will remain at the bottom of the river.

OF LOCAL INTEREST

Some People We Know, and We Will Profit By Hearing About Them.

This is a purely local event. It took place in Maysville. Not in some faraway place. You are asked to investigate it. Asked to believe a citizen's word; To confirm a citizen's statement. Any article that is endorsed at home is more worthy of confidence. Than one you know nothing about, Endorsed by unknown people.

Mrs. Dora Mefford, Maysville, says: "I had been feeling poorly for some time before I knew that my kidneys were at fault. I was nervous and dizzy and my back and head ached. I rested poorly and mornings I was all tired out. I read in a local paper how a neighbor had been cured of kidney trouble by Doan's Kidney Pills. I used them and before long I felt stronger and better and I slept good at night."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Mefford had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

SHIVELY SUCCEEDED BY THOMAS TAGGART, INDIANA DEMOCRATIC CHIEF.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—Governor Ralston yesterday appointed Thomas Taggart, Democratic national committeeman from Indiana, United States Senator to serve until the fall election, filling the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Benjamin F. Shively.

Mr. Taggart will leave the latter part of the week for Washington to take the oath of office.

The Governor wrote out the appointment in long hand on his own stationery.

The new Senator has been prominent in politics in Indiana for twenty-five years and has maintained the leadership of the Democratic party in Indiana virtually all of that time. The only offices Mr. Taggart has ever held were auditor of this (Marion) county for two terms and three times mayor of Indianapolis.

OHIO STATE LEAGUE MEETING AT LEXINGTON SUNDAY.

(Huntington Herald.)

A meeting of the Ohio State League directors for the purpose of posting forfeits for the 1916 season will be held next Sunday at Lexington, Ky. Manager J. H. De Armond of this city, declared yesterday that he had received formal notification of the meeting from President Joe Carr. The following cities will be represented: Charleston, Huntington, Portsmouth, Maysville, Lexington and Frankfort.

Mr. De Armond stated that he is sure Huntington will start. Only five hundred dollars is needed for the guarantee fund. It is thought this sum will have been subscribed by Wednesday night. It is De Armond's intention to call for one thousand dollars of the subscription so that he may post the Huntington forfeit.

He also declared that while the negotiations between he and Shelton are being held, nothing definite has been done. He refused to comment further than that Shelton is ready and willing to perform in his home town. Since the announcement that Shelton may sign with the locals, new interest in baseball has been created. Many have voluntarily sent in subscriptions to the guarantee fund.

PEACE RUMORS REFLECTED IN NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

New York, March 21.—Shipping men evinced a lively interest in reports from Galveston that tonnage arrangements had been cancelled there by the receipt of a cable dispatch from a prominent London chartering firm which gave as its reason that "immediate peace is in sight in Europe."

Members of large shipping firms here said, however, that no word of a confirmatory character had been received in New York and that no cancellations had been made here. Insurance brokers who handle marine risks also said they had received no intimation of the step reported in the Galveston dispatch. The peace rumors were reflected in the stock market, where abrupt declines occurred.

Funch, Edye & Compton and Simpson, Spence & Young, shipping firms here with Galveston connections, said that they had received no word of cancellations either from London or from Galveston. The New York Maritime Exchange was also without confirmation of the report.

GUN TROUBLE AT COLUMBUS EXPLAINED.

Washington, March 21.—An official report explaining that difficulty of loading in darkness was responsible for the failure of two of the four weapons of the Thirteenth cavalry's machine gun troop in the fight with Villa and his bandits at Columbus was received at the War Department. Press dispatches telling of the guns jamming had caused Brigadier General Crozier, chief of Ordnance, to order an investigation.

By refusing to increase the regular army provisions of the Hay bill, the House Monday made it almost certain that the measure will go to the Senate virtually as framed. The result of the debate is regarded as sustaining the President as to the size of the regular army.

"FAITHFUL GERMANS"

Hold Reunion in Washington To Talk Over Old Times—Famous Civil War Veterans.

Washington, D. C.—The eight surviving members of the famous Eighth Battalion of District of Columbia volunteers, called by President Lincoln "my faithful Germans," held a reunion on the fifty-fifth anniversary of Lincoln's inauguration.

They are the survivors of the company of volunteer German immigrants, not yet mustered into regular service as militia, that made safe and possible the inauguration of President Lincoln. His "faithful Germans" were chosen by Lincoln himself to be his personal guard at the time of his inauguration in a community not generally sympathetic with him.

Grave and serious animosities toward Lincoln were known to exist in many quarters. Threats of assassination were breathed at the time. His entrance into the city had to be made under cover of secrecy. Together with the handful of regular troops under General Scott, the Washington Rifles, as the German volunteers were known, were selected by Lincoln himself as his body guard.

The Eighth Battalion grew out of the company known as the Washington Rifles, or German Jaegers, which had been organized the previous January. The little company of Germans was very active in its drilling, for many of its members had received military training during their boyhood before they left their native country. They held themselves ready for service at any time in case of need.

On Washington's birthday, 1861, they marched 325 strong through the streets with the balance of the National Guard, about 2,000 strong, making up the small army of volunteers which the capital was preparing for the stirring events that were to ensue. The showing of the German contingent attracted attention.

Accordingly, on March 4, 1861, one company of the battalion was commanded to guard the position where the President took the oath of office and made the inaugural address. Members of the three companies, commanded by Captain Ernest Loeffler, Captain Joseph Gerhard and Captain Wladislaw Krizanowski marched beside and behind the carriage when the newly inaugurated President drove up Pennsylvania avenue on his way to the White House. Other members on guard occupied windows of the Capitol overlooking the ceremonies and also were stationed on the roofs of the houses along the avenue.

After fifty-five years have gone, these eight survivors of the famous battalion are pursuing their own quiet ways in Washington. With one or two exceptions they continue to the present day to follow the trades or professions in which they were trained before the war. The comradeship of the eventful days bring them together four times a year, and they toast each other and the departed comrades.

The president of this unique society of survivors is William Reith. He is the only member alive today of the guard which performed guard duty over the body of Lincoln following his assassination. He assisted in the placing of the martyred President in his casket. He had served through the war as an artificer under General Daniel Buckner.

The other survivors are Ernest Ruppert, Henry Koons, John Seiler, John Lerch, Jacob Karr, Charles Hartman and Louis Kettler. Kettler, who is the youngest of the survivors, is now 76 years old. He walked beside Lincoln's carriage on inauguration day. In 1861. Later, while guarding the Treasury Building, he became a close friend of Lincoln, who often brought sandwiches to the guards. He was in Ford's Theater the night the President was shot, and was a member of the escort at the funeral.

WAR'S SEA TOLL.

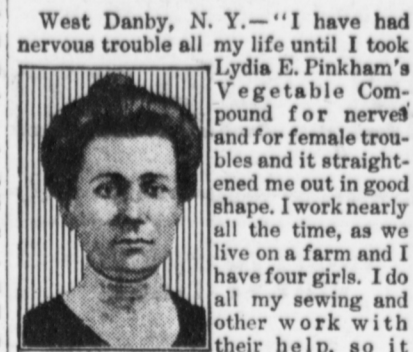

Washington, March 21.—The European war has taken from the seas more than 2,000 merchant vessels of nearly 4,000,000 tonnage, according to figures published by the Department of Commerce. Germany, with 600 vessels sunk, captured or detained, heads the list of losers.

Two hundred and twenty-five of the 500 British vessels lost were sunk by submarines. Great Britain's allies lost 167 ships. Austria lost eighty and Turkey 124. The total of neutral losses is put at 736, but most of these were released after being reported captured.

Ninety-two neutral vessels have been submarine and ninety-four sunk by mines. Twenty-three have been damaged by submarines and mines.

WOMAN HAD NERVOUS TROUBLE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

West Danby, N. Y.—"I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerve troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I have also had my oldest girl take it and it did her lots of good. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it."—Mrs. DEWITT SINCEBAUGH, West Danby, N. Y.

Sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, backache, headaches, dragging sensations, all point to female derangements which may be overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

SHERIFFS TO TEST LAW.

Frankfort, Ky., March 21.—As a result of a decision made by State Auditor Greene that sheriffs should be allowed mileage but one way when conveying prisoners to the state penitentiaries, a test suit will probably be filed for the purpose of construing the law allowing the mileage. The law has previously been construed to mean that sheriffs should receive 10 cents per mile going to the penitentiary with prisoners and returning home. Auditor Greene is of the opinion that the mileage should be allowed but one way and will hold up payment of mileage both ways until instructed to pay it by the courts.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Important Announcement to the Public!

As is now generally known, we have purchased the entire Clothing and Men's Shoe stock, with fixtures and good will of the old, reliable J. Wesley Lee store and propose to continue business at the same stand. It will be our purpose to handle only a high-class line of merchandise and we will greatly appreciate the continued patronage of Mr. Lee's customers and that of as many more friends as will favor us with their trade. So much for a brief introduction.

NOW FOR A MONEY-SAVING STARTER

Doubtless you are familiar, to a certain extent, with the price advance in certain clothing lines, and the prospect is that prices will continue to be increased. However, having purchased Mr. Lee's high-grade stock in bulk at a figure that will permit it, we have, instead of marking goods UP, made substantial price reductions all along the line and we can and do promise intending Men's Clothing or Shoe purchasers values not obtainable elsewhere at this time. Come in; seeing is believing.

VILLA MONEY.

New York, March 22.—Mexico may be poverty stricken as a result of her devastating revolutions, but the Mexican money crop never fails. Villa alone has printed enough money to finance a dozen revolutions if it were accepted at its face value. Large bales of his currency are being distributed in the United States. There seems to be no danger, however, of their depreciating our own currency. The bank notes are exchanged for less than it cost to print them.

BURIED HERE.
